

DIARY OF N. A. CAGWIN
Journey to California, April 4, 1850 - June 26, 1850

In keeping a journal of a route from any one point or given place to another, through a new, wild and almost unknown country, each day may be noted down by a record number of matters and things that would otherwise be forgotten and [This is a record of the journey of N. A. Cagwin from Joliet, Will County, Illinois, to Utah, April 1850 to June 26, 1850] Its only value is that a subsequent affair has around the events and history of each day of my trip which will be the better known, the interesting incidents thereof could often adduce or distract the reader from the road or see no. to any person who might have across the mind some particular, as it might be. Our history and its facts, the history of the world for such a period of time may be turned loose, scattered at large. Men have been known to turn up dead, in the sphere of action, the enlarged or circumscribed field of interest and general reading, are however, wide enough to give opportunity for the study of many subjects, they have not, however, the same interest as the history of the world, for the reason that the world is a chain of events, and the history of the world, the histories shall

Copied from original in California State Library, September, 1961

Thursday April 14th 1830

Five individuals of us, viz., C. S., Corwin G. S., Macomber George W., Agard C. H., Hill and S. A. Corwin being no other. Preface not than my own self, just listed.

In keeping a Journal of a route from any one point or given place to another, through a new, wild and almost untried country, much may be noted down by a strict observer of matters and things that would otherwise be unnoticed and perhaps entirely lost. A Daily Diary of events may seem to some a monotonous affair but should the events and History of each day of any one man's life be duly noted down, the thrilling incidents thereof would afford matter of instruction and example for real or for no. to any person who might come across the same written or printed, as it might be. Our history and in fact, the history of the world is made up of what may be termed Common incidents of life. Men have become noted more or less, as the sphere of action was enlarged or circumscribed. Caesar, conquered and robbed nations, so Bonaparte. Their names live as great generals and magnificent Conquerors. Washington spoiled not, and but built up a beautiful Temple, dedicating the same to Liberty, for the use and benefit of our common race. His name will live untarnished by a stain of wrong or cruelty, when all others, Conquerors, and Neroes (?) Bravadoes shall be remembered only in horror and Shame.

Saturday April 16th 1830

Risen from between Martin and me, and having breakfasted at the former's house of continued living over no great time, we had nothing to do but eat bacon, coffee and cold lunch for breakfast, and then go about the business of the day. Passed through Martin and Peter. Near noon, we stopped at a house of Mr. John Chapman, some twenty miles from here, and there I had dinner consisting of bacon and beans, and a cold lunch of bacon and beans. After continuing directly on without stops, we reached the village of New York at 4 P.M.

critical hour, (finished!) by intense thirst and starvation, the last moment of a Thursday April 4th 1850. Passing through Peru we went on about ten miles Five Individuals of us, viz, O. D. Cagwin C. S. Blackman George W. Agard G. E.
Hill and N. A. Cagwin being no other person other than my own self, left Joliet, Will Co. Ills. bound for California all being in good health and fine flow of spirits. Three of the above named individuals were men of families and to such the parting scene is always attended with feelings of peculiar solemnity and deep interest. The husband and wife part, perhaps never again to meet each other on the shores of time. He kisses his little ones, and with a heart too full for utterance tears himself away. Thus were our final adieux taken leaving Joliet at noon, being accompanied by Brother Abijah and Jas T. McDougall Esq.
~~about three miles~~ on the way. We put up that night at Old Mill Hill, Eighteen miles from Joliet, providentially we were enabled to get through the ~~will be~~ 18 ten miles without the loss of a single horse, strayed deep, mud, bad and a match at that this evening early calling at Dr. Miller as we passed through Kishwaukee where most of the do were vaccinated, leaving one of Joes comforts on my back, and it proving very painful, had it lanced and found relief. Arrived at Ottawa 56.
Tore our do, taking care of our car horses and for the first time prepared to sleep in our own wagon a la Kossuth style, down at length upon the ground; stepped one mile west at N. Barlowe a ~~will be~~ 28 Saturday April 6th 1850 that he made a great fire because we loaded our luggage from our wagon "births all well" and found that the breaking in of our new modes of rest and living was no great thing after becoming used to it. We had warm coffee and cold lunch for breakfast—rigged up our team and were off betimes.
Passed through Utica and Peru. Near Utica are the celebrated (or ought to be) white Sulpher Springs. Some beautiful moss Petrifications are here to be found.
After drinking freely we passed on down the Illinois bottom to the Starred Rock.
It is situated on the opposite side of the River. It is a curiosity & on its conical top, (pinched?) by siege thirst and Starvation, the last remnant of a once powerful tribe of Indians. Passing through Peru we went on about ten miles and camped in a farmers yard, good hay & Stabling. 26 Miles Sunday 7th a played. The face of the country gradually softening with every mile. On awaking this beautiful Sabbath morning found all in order, which is no small desideratum to the moving emigrant. Starting at 5 A. M. we traveled through a beautiful section of country and arrived about noon at Princeton Co., seat of Bureau. Wrote my first letter home to Brothers, passed on, crossed Bureau creek, through Indian Town village in a deep valley and onward five miles and encamped for the night. 21 Miles.

Monday April 8th 1850. Providence being the name of the town wherein we stopped, by an early move through Providence, providentially we were enabled to get through the first ten miles unscattered. The land low, almost deep, roads, bad and uncertain at any time for the greatly complicated roads of Iroquois Co. I could but forget to mention that our landlord an old grey-headed worthy, had with him with other items, one of 5 cents for chips used in cooking chow, a Choup of course. After crossing the east branch of Green river, the country is fine and well cultivated also that of Indian growth a few miles farther onward. Arrived near sun down at Lafayette passing through encamped one mile West at H. Burrows a small pattern indeed for a landlord, so small that he made a great fuss because we loaded our horses with old hay from the manger, surely he deserved to be whipped by some one as himself if the like could be found. 25 miles

Tuesday 9th into the gulf of Mexico. This was a cold rainy morning and left our grabbed Landlords at early dawn passing through a lovely section of country. Halted a short time in the neat little village of Victoria, where I mailed a short letter to my wife. Passed on through eight miles of hilly, hickory barrens, then on to Knoxville fine land and in a high state of cultivation.

26 Miles

-3-

Wednesday April 10th 1850 half story structures presenting an appearance Knoxville the Co. seat of Knox, is pleasant, a village with a business like appearance. The Court being in session many people were in Town and some antics were being played. The face of the country gently undulating with alternate grove and prairie making it most convenient for the agriculturist. Passed through the village of Mammoth Co. seat of Warren. Near this place a Presbyterian cut his throat last week. No cause was given save an excitement beginning to be felt of a protracted meeting soon to be held in the village. From this place prairie more rolling, -As you near the Mi River. Turned off main road at a mile and put up with Hockier Hanna, good all day. Even supper. 27 Miles mays. Thursday over a tenth mile prairie one third of which had low bluffs, yet this days travel was through Henderson Co., the last one we were to pass in Illinois on our route. As you approach the Mi bottoms, country hilly, soil light, and poorly, the scrub oaks being the principle timber. The bottoms were quite dry, passable, the road winding through the tall & majestic forest at last brought us onto the banks of the great Mississippi opposite Burlington our 8th day from Joliet 192 miles. We crossed over on a large powered boat $2.00 ferrage for the train. We passed on putting up the village of Tammie River. 24 Miles

Friday April 12th 1850 Country around Burlington very hilly, High and commanding bluffs skirting the River on a multitude of broken hills is situated the thriving town of Burlington said to possess a population of six thousand souls. The River here is $3/4$ of a mile wide and current rapid, a pecularity of this great river from its source to its outlet into the gulph of Mexico. This was a cold rainy morning and before noon it turned into hail & snow. We traveled on, passing "Augusta" a dirty looking village on Skunk River which is near 100 yards wide and now 17 feet in depth, current rapid. Ferried over. Three miles onward came to the village of Denmark. The country around was settled by a colony, from New England--Houses neat one and a half story structures presenting an appearance of neatness & convenience bespeaking a people of enterprise and taste combined. Five and one half miles further brought us to West Point, but a short time since an extreme frontier point garrisoned by United States troops to watch the movements of the Indians and hold them in check. The land is fertile and fine farms, highly cultivated lay all around. Went on a mile and put up with a hospitable Dutchman.

-15-

1850

20 Miles

Saturday April 13th 1850 The night changed from West to North east--Left our German premises at an early hour our faces set towards the West against Wind cold and piercing. Ice never thawed all day. Even exposed to the sun's rays. Passed over a twelve mile prairie one third of which was low clayey wet ground the road almost impassable. At noon we stopped at a small farm house and the winds were so high and cold, no instance that we went in by invitation and partook of our noon day's lunch--beside a smoking fire and tried to be merry. The face of the country in general fine soil, rich and the public lands all to taken up. Hay & grain scarce and hard to be got at any time. Descending to the valley of the Des Moines River--through gentle slopes of oak openings. We reached Bonaparte, situated on the east bank of the River, go off.

20 Miles

North wind half a mile and an odd fellow to boot was all in our favor. The Des Moines River runs a south westerly course is very rapid, and only navigable a short distance above its mouth for small Steam Boats. By slack water, down & looking round the rapids it can be much improved & the Country benefited thereby. Coal of a superior quality abounds in the vicinity. Lands fine--timber good, Oak, Maple, (Lynn?) & beautiful country, indeed, say, N. A. C. was the Monday April 15th 1850 " (I'll try) has accomplished wonders" I can't About 8 O'clock A. M. crossed the ferry and traveled up the river through a heavy timbered country some what hilly and roads rather bad. Soil tinctured with clay, but a fine, farming section. Some fine barns, but few finished or framed houses. The air freezing cold coming Westerly from the mountainous regions. Passed about noon the road coming up from Keyosocqua where we witnessed the parting scene of friends parting with friends. A Co from that town just starting out for golden lands. Some were quite noisy having drank freely, other sedate and thoughtful with firm resolve stamped upon their features--Food becoming every day more scarce. Weather moderate not travel enough at 20 Miles

-5-

Tuesday " 15th

This was a day of trial. Wind in the night changed from West to North east--At widow McCormick near village of Troy Bot [bought] 8 bushels of corn good measure for 2/ per bushel. Generous widow she could just as well have taken 3/ but she wished to do something for the Emigrants. Surely the young widow, whom again she carries deserves a generous instant. Soon after leaving Troy it set in snowing and such a guster would do honor to any winters day. Roads sloughs and hills steep & slippery were compelled to halt 1 mile east of Elcomfield Davies Co, with a Mr. Avery Evans once fell all P. M. And night from 6 to 8 in. deep. Horses ballad up bad & tired out, so the Co. by performing 16 Miles

Wednesday April 17th 1850 After over deep snow going, the sloughs being almost this day laid by with brother Evans waiting for the snow to go off. Our Worlthy host being a heavier end an odd fellow to boot was all in our favor. The tempest had passed away. Many southerly winds prevailed, the disappeared as if by the touch of a Magician's Hand. At night the beautiful moon, with a bright galaxy of stars, looked down upon earth beaming countenance. We passed the time away in shooting, cooking Beans, Baking bread and playing Dominoes. A set of fine ones. We had made in imitation of those of Joliet memory, N. A. C. was the baker and succeeded to a charm. "(I'll try) has accomplished Wonders" I can't never a single thing sour nothing.

No miles

Thursday " 18th alternate. Our sick man is gaining finely and before Sky overcast with clouds again, roads very slippery and bad traveling, poor house stranger booster

the start the railroads imposed Tobacco
new arrival oblivious provisions $100 A/C no news
see fit advice
I think but not old
ph. a/c off yellow sought it up fit a galaxy of views ago until as tested a seven and revo 1/2

-6-

chance indeed for making head way. Geo. W. Agard sick abed with the mumps. Caught cold in the storm. Mumps struck down and the prospect ahead is that the roads will become settler before we shall be able to get away. Game in the vicinity being plenty. We were in for soups and other good dishes. This afforded us fine pastime. Beer & wild turkeys were occasionally come in contact with, though trying quite hard we got neither venison nor turkey soup at all a, tall. Finally saw the Fergus put to bed in true hobbler style. ~~about 10 miles~~
~~on Friday Apr 19th 1850~~ at the entertainment. ~~about 10 miles~~
~~on Saturday Apr 20th~~ two miles ahead of us laid by an a/c of bad going. And we are still here with our sick comrade. Weather more mild, grass beginning to start a little. Bought this day 16 bushels corn by performing a retrograde movement of some seven miles, over very bad going, the slopes being almost impassable. We had to truck it out and then pay 90 cents per bushel for it besides, and very glad were we to obtain it at that, for reports from others who ^{at} no grain to be had, any price; what ever. Walked out on a gunning excursion today, started up three splendid deer. I gave them a fine salute with my shot gun, which did the way they raised their white colors and bounded in Majestic leaps ^{away} over the hill sides was a spectacle worth beholding. Agard being sums better, we think, by Monday or Tuesday he will be able to ride and go ahead again. Our motto - Virtue, honesty, how pitch down my wife and you for better and ~~No miles~~ ~~on Sunday Apr 21st 1850~~ at the wedding. I quite moderately replaced riding, This day rain and sunshine alternate. Our sick man is gaining finely and begins to cheer up at the prospect of an early start and a rumored wedding to come off this P. M., the parties being Evan's Sister and Mr. Stephens, County Clerk and Recorder -- The hour came, the company assembled, the squire was on hand, the Knot duly tied, and they twain were by a few fitly spoken words, made one flesh. Then came off the dinner and we were on hand as honorary guests. All passed off finely--the Skull varnish (New Whiskey & Molasses United) circulated freely, and all felt merrily. At night we gave them a salute in Marshal style, and finally saw the Parties put to bed in true hoosier style. When we retired to our tent highly pleased with the entertainment east side of a low No Miles below Monday, 12 P.M. 22nd from Meridian River. Quails were quite abundant and began to make preparations this day for a move. "Westward Ho" resolving to start early on the morrow. Our sick convalescent, our team rotted, ourselves (recruited?) by feasting and entertainments, we think nothing can prevent us from going ahead. The weather cool sky clear, roads quite dry. Windy in the west, Lockport train passed here today, started two weeks ahead of us--laid by on a/c of bad going. Small Fly-trap found by, thinking black duck (brought down by H.A.C. on the No Miles 1. Fox Tuesday Apr 23d 1850 at the Battleground. And such a day as we had was a Visited the Blockfield Lodge of J. Q. O. P. last night, at the invitation of Miss Evans. Found myself without the traveling pass word, all things else right, lettered myself in and found the Lodge in a flourishing condition. The members intelligent and enterprising men. By then I was cordially received and treated as a brother and friend though a stranger in the land. This day completes the week we have lain by. Our tent was taken down and all things in readiness for an early start. Our Bill was now called for. Hay and Stabling for our horses, bed and the trouble of our sick man. Pasturage &c. Nothing to pay replies our Worthy-host, how much does my wife owe you for butter and the use of your Plate (not Silver) at the wedding. I quite modestly replied nothing, but Mr. Evans, this is more than we expected. Your kindness has taken us by surprise; quite Strangers in a storm, you took us in made us willing guests.

at your table, and at the Social circle around your fire side. You have cared for our sick and helped to administer to his wants. We expected to pay you liberly and now you say we owe you nothing. Sir you have our good wishes--for yourself and family. I made the woman & children some Jewelry presents & we took our leave. Encamping that night on Sheridan Bottom. ~~the road, the~~ 21 Miles on Wednesday Apr 24th 1850 was for the oxers. All things now being ready we Our tent was pitched last night in a beautiful grove of timber to the right of the road, about a quarter of a mile, and on the east edge of a low marshy bottom land, three miles from Sheridan River. Quails were quite abundant and other game. We got our share surely. Our start this morning was retarded nearly a/c of making a new singletree to replace a broken one of the day before. The road through the bottom was a winding one as well as miry. We were two hours in making the three miles but finally reached the River unharmed. The nights are freezing cold. Wind today North & weather very mild. Our game list today: one ♀ rabbit, 3 quails, 1 large black duck (Brought down by H.C. on the wing.) 1 Fox squirrel and a tremendous Rattlesnake. And such a scupper we had with a lucky indeed. The Rattlesnake was the only thing ejected, the croaking, poisonous reptile being blown to atoms. We passed over the Sheridan and came into a beautiful section of Rolling Prairie country, but very thinly settled.
Every year however brings its train of Emigrants and but little land on they route, in these parts remains untaken. Iowa is destined to rank high among the grain growing States of the Union. Our Water pteers are also abundant, sovereign people. He could cook his own victuals all as Judge & Justice in the 27 miles.

on Thursday Apr 25th 1850 we were part of a gang of Bisons up and down. We Did not start this morning until eleven we were hunting for squaw pony. She lagged behind in the P. M. and lost sight of the train and strayed off. G.
Blackman rode back six miles & returned without finding her. The two Charles & myself then went in search, I taking the stream and highlands to the right, they the more extended plain to the left. With gun on my shoulder I traveled over hill side through groves and deep ravines for eight miles, shot two Pigeons and had a glimpse of a wild turkey. I returned to camp tired and weary and found the Pony on hand. The boys had been more successful than myself. She was found tied up to the fence, a man having caught her on a lie road, thinking her strayed, done it out of kindness for the owners. All things now being ready we proceeded on our way rejoicing and soon passed the Iowa line into Missouri, in Dodge County. We crossed an eighteen mile prairie with not a single house in view. Face of the country high & rolling, road running midway on divides or ridges from which deep ravines, headed running to the right & left. Camped early and went to baking twelve warm loaves & ^{NO} Fishes was the result. Weather very mild wind from the south. 14 Miles.

-9-

Friday Apr 26th 1850

Left camping grounds this morning 1/2 past 7. Fine rolling prairie and timber enough for all, all purposes, to a farming community. Small streams of fine flavored water abundant. About 9 o'clock passed through a nameless town (Tenting Up) one large log house and another a great way off. Meeting a good many people on horse back with bags of provisions & cooking utensils. We had the ^{greatest} curiosity to inquire the cause for surely they were headed the wrong way for California. We were told it was court week and they were going to the county seat, the log house we had passed in the morning. And the man we had just passed was their Judge—a man after their own heart and the free choice of the sovereign people. He could cook his own victuals sit at Judge & Lodge in the same house, with the rest of them, and he was pert at a game of Seven up and nine. We passed on thinking we had seen a fine specimen of high life in the greatest frontier State of Mo. This is a fine grain growing section. The base of the soil clay, a light kind of marl above giving its color to the streams of which there are plenty. At night camped in a woody piece of bottom land, on quite a large creek in Co. with 20 or more trains, all ignorant, thinking 32 Miles.

Saturday Apr. 27th 1850 / for new axle and it being now near night we were soon off. This morning our train were the first of the large cavalcade in motion. As each team wheeled into line, Joy and animation seemed depicted on each countenance. Men Women and children all seemed to vie with each other to see which should be the happiest and most cheerful. Four miles onward we came to the village of Princeton. Buildings mostly of the log cabin architecture. People of the pioneer bush Whacker Cart, fond of Whiskey, ribe bags and Tough and a humble fight. A little out of town in going up a hill, cracked axle of small wagon, to get mended, which detained us until near noon. Took the road to the right, a cut off one and called the State road. Hasty going hard wheeling. Encamped in a lonely camp bottomed between close by the relics of an old Miles College. Sunday Apr. 28th 1850 / a roaring camp fire gleamed brightly. Started of May commenced raining soon after midnight and poured down without intermission until 10 o'clock. Went pitch dark a bad place consequently got up instant boiling fire in the night got alarmed at strange and unsooth sounds and built a searing camp fire to keep off the Panthers Lynx and other ravenous beasts quite plentiful in those parts. Watched up about noon and went on some eight miles ferrying over the middle fork of Great River. Found a fine dry camping place. Monday Apr. 29th 1850 went to do. We missed this portion of originality much. Last night was severely cold; our deep Kettle froze over ice fathig 1/4 of an inch thick. Were on the move at early dawn thinking this day we would pass from 25 to 30 miles at least, but our expectations were far from founded upon striking a root our (four mil) axle broke clean off. There was a dilemma, five miles to Bethany County seat of Harrison. We got a pole however and dragged the old wagon into port. Got the village (squir, ?) to make us a new one and for the want of a seasoned stick, cut down a green oak and fitted her into place. The out skirt village Towns of Missouri are some pumpkins sure, celebrated for no doubt.

Thursday May 2nd 1850

-11-

Raw Whiskey, Smoked Bacon and Linsey Wooley clad, ignorant, drinking and sur weeks silly acting "Pukes". Paid 6/- for new axle and it being now near night we struck camp, hitched up and went a half mile or so and camped, thinking it more prof 15 Miles, sure Tuesday grain, 30th 1850 of the country as you near the Missouri is more hilly Country less rolling as you approach the west branch of Grand River. The soil aspect is of a superior quality in fact it is a splendid farming country, but alas, corner the emerald soil remains uncultured, laborers are few a want of enterprise seems to pervade the land. Catoosaville on east side of R. Grand River quite a thriving village. People are noisy, free whiskey drink, uniting were Indians - jocundous. Pord of the river about a mile & camped the Missouri water at 26 Miles.

Wednesday May 1st 1850 affects me this its surcharged waters rapid current Our camping ground last night was in the wood along by the roadside, of an old tin deposit. Old rags sheep and the roving camp fire gleamed brightly against a sky full of flowers, with this nothing combining a beautiful transparency of atmosphere interlacing air dash in thin maps. The sky was unclouded, air cool and bracing like unto December. All characters here represented. 15 Miles

This morning we all remember

No rainy air pressing us Rochester winter holds on with herculean grasp, dying apple blossom finds even dimmest sugar. Men People the old Turkey call did not catch up with us, seemed to do. He missed this species of originality much, but as good luck would have it we fell in So., with an old United States regular who had served in the late Mexican war. Not long distinguished in his way, I have found an incident on each in my notes from the "Shades". We entered upon and crossed a twenty four mile prairie keeping on the Divide through the center, thus avoiding the many deep ravines peculiar to this section of country. Near sun down we entered the village of Rochester, beautifully situated on the east side of quite a large creek. The people seemed active living by their industry Their place of nativity surely was north of the Mason & Dixon's line, Yankees no doubt. 30 Miles

Thursday May 2nd 1850

Having an early start we arrived in St. Jo. at noon to a minute. Just four weeks to a second after leaving Joliet. This day saw slaves in the fields, breaking hemp, cultivated largely in this section. The farmer thinking it more profitable and sure than that of grain. The face of the country as you near the Missouri is more hilly and broken yet extremely fertile. As we came in sight of the place what a prospect was spread out before us. On every hill side and valley in every nook and corner were pitched the tents and circled the wagons of the adventurous and daring emigrants on their way to finish out their march and leave the town without grant. Every avenue to the place was thronged with those just coming in some I like at the top of their speed. Others in the usual gait of a long journey, Willing to abide their time if not leaving the Missouri water quite as soon. Received a few lines today from my mother dated 7th April by the hand of Mr. C. Why soon enough to feel its effects and view its surcharged waters rapid current whirling eddies and caving banks. Teams were constantly crossing out into the prairie now and day brings forth something new. A tall keetuck crosses into our Indian territory, most of them going out six miles through the heavy bottomed timber to the bluffs & then camping, waiting for warmer weather and the starting again when before in the morning from the place of starting. #41 he once of vegetation. Joliet boys mostly gone over it commenced raining at 2 P. M. & kept pouring all night. All characters here represented. 15 Miles

Friday May 3rd 1850

had an early start. The air cold, vegetation backward. No rain today, but cold and windy winter holds on with herculean grasp, dying like Sampson shaking the pillars of the beautiful temple erected to spring and dedicated to the fair goddess of flowers. The impatient emigrant waits expectantly for crossing over the river. Time is about 1 o'clock P. M. in the Indian Territory. His heart throbbed with mixed hope and fear as he casts his eyes away towards the setting sun. Never knowing what his fate may be in traversing the vast plain—Scaling the cloud capped mountains—the passage of the desert that lay in his way—and a thousand other things real or imaginary, that may await him. Well may the thoughtful think and the timid shrink back at the prospect for it is a Journey that will try the patience, test the powers of endurance and bring out in indelible colors, the character of any man that dares to venture. Wrote to my wife and Brother in law Cyrus Adams. Naperville this day--have as yet received no letter from home. Laid in most of our stores at the rate - 1100 flour 3-1/2¢ Bacon 3-1/2 to 5 the higher price being sugar cured and verry nice.

Sugar 6-1/4 & 7¢. Enjoy great sport in seeing what is to be seen. Indians shooting at a sixpence, edge ways from 3 to 4 rods--with great precision.
Everyone going direct to his spent arrows, making no mistakes. No Miles

Saturday May 4th 1850
Received a few lines today from my mother dated 7th April by the hand of Mr. C.
Received a few lines today from my mother dated 7th April by the hand of Mr. C.
B. Hopkins. Wrote Brother a well filled letter when on the mid-night watch, Every hour and day brings forth something new. A tall Kentuck strode into our camp at midnight pretending to have come up the river some 16 miles on a bet to return again before 4 in the morning from the place of starting. Said he once won a wager by walking 450 miles in 49 hours. I have this original fully portrayed in a No. from the "Shades." Grain very scarce and scarcely to be had at any price. The air cold. vegetation backward. No Miles

Sunday * 5th Arose early and started from St. Joe across the River with the extra team. We had This morning prepared for crossing over the River. Done so about 1-0'clock P. M. on a Steam ferry Boat. River high waters verry muddy. Found ourselves and train at last crossed the Rubicon in the Indian Territory. Passed through the wooded bottom. Six miles almost every rod of the way being occupied by tents wagons etc. What a rush for the great El Dorado. The passage of this majestic mood I have fully described in book of incidents. 8 Miles

Monday May 6th 1850
This morning went in to St. Joe. to obtain my letters if any there, were or should arrive in the mail due this day at 5 P. M. Arriving early I whiled away the time as a looker on in venice, marking well the movements of the vast multitudea constantly pouring in from every avenue. Such a Spectacle as seen in and around this place does not often greet the gaze of man. Such an excitement occurs, but seldom a Universal emigration all bent upon one object Mining digging for gold in the deep ravines and Mountain fastnesses of the great El Dorada State. Received a letter from Bro. F. L. G. dated 23 April all well. Wrote the closing letter as I supposed to them and left Town for the camp, but falling in with C. B. Hopkins made up my mind to remain in Town all night this last moving emigrant world, nice specimens of human nature and shapes ~~No Miles~~ to Tuesday May 7th 1850. Leidoscope. We are now all ready to leave, the long Arrows early from my German birth and gone across Arroyo from Joliet's ship Company having distroyed and part of them made up there minds to return. Michaelus to take him into our train, which we agreed to do on certain conditions. Made his horses out to come along, heavy though again having fallen & gone round until well took up where in been [sic] says & started off with old Pete and Hill to the city. There he dust up and commenced fitting out Arrows for an early start on the touch Hartman lively and bordering rather on the comic touching at times very ~~No Miles~~ to Wednesday May 8th 1850 rating at other but a nice shade from the supremely Arrows early and started Arroyo & Hill across the River with the entire team. We had got up for the mutual benefit of all. Paid $10. for old Pete to match Arrows Big horse old Mike. We paid two thirds for the horses mss. furnishing Wagon harness and his share of the horse feed. Provisions for self to make all things equal for the tripe. We on our part agreeing to see him safe through with the rest of us to California. Grain falling in price a little today--Corn 8/- Oats the same. Wrote a seven structure (?) in poetic style on St. Jo & Nev. swindlers and took it myself to the Independent Adventure printing office and told its editor to publish the same if he had the moral courage to do so. Emigrante leaving for the Plains by the thousand daily. Ferried over the River and took nically packed and our train under full head-way, and a multitude of other for the cut off Indian trail path to the bluff. I was alone, the way was a solitary one, through tall and majestic timber, a fit place truely for sounding the Indian War Whoop and an Indian's mode of traveling in single file in a path trod and deeply worn by their ancestors for ages past beyond our knowledge. In my book of incidents, I dwell more minutely on this excursion to the Bluffs Via the Indian trail. Arrived in camp and found all well.

No Miles

Wednesday May 8th 1850. The bluffs are slippery and dangerous

Thursday May 9th 1850. The weather being fine we had no difficulty in going ahead. From here have we been cavorting in St. Jo one whole week, having seen much of this point we had a most splendid view of the surrounding country. Away to the vast moving emigrant world, nice specimens of human nature and shades of character from the rapid Missouri river bank and majestic prairie, would be seen here as many hues as the Kaleidoscope. We are now all ready to leave, the long days waiting in the sun rays like burning silver. To the last day we have wished for letters have all come to hand, and good news from home as far back as April 16th. Tomorrow we are off lucky or no lucky day. Rec. no letters at this instant and a distant view of the St. Jo and Missouri ground. Distance 25 miles from my wife, but presume she is well. Sold some trinkets at Auction today got Friday May 10th 1850. up on the auctioneers post on the corner of the streets for a few moments while passing, held back yesterday the banks of which are very steep. He paid the proprietor went to fire up. I suppose with Brandy & Sugar, my design was to get away for the privilege of crossing on an old log bridge rather than to make sport rather than to sell. I gave the wondering people a Chicago touch from the dust of flogging and straining our legs and breaking our backs in tune lively and bordering rather on the comic touching at times very near going over to its abrupt doom. Here we saw some fine looking ladies up to the sublime, and approximating at other but a nice shade from the supremely vulgar to locate, seek health and sun bath. The traps were very expert and ridiculous. My point was gained, the stand was thronged around whilst others were completely deserted. I had a short sparing in words with a would be, and in his turn, it was well for us to see him educated and smacked to see the own estimation no doubt a learned and wise man. This time at any rate he came across some twenty or more looking day traps across an open compartment until off, as it was thought second best. He should have known better than to have walked away with the mark that was made on him and smacked the boy and a come in contact with the slim tongued Chicago auctioneer. Made a fine profit amount of laughter from him as well as myself. A foot race too hard off, the on my Jewelry etc. Laid in the bal. of our supply of horse feed, and crossed frontier for the goal of winning the day prize, an Indian boy 4 or 5 miles had in the River, bidding St. Jo a long farewell, "Nolens Volens".

No Miles

The white boy was the Indian boy to the morning. Five miles from half back in leaving the Indian village and a hundred miles it is. Here we go, a long push, a strong push, a tall rush of pushing Emigrants all along the road, Indians and Indians, a great many Indians. See land here together. At early dawn our bluff camping ground was deserted, everything nicely packed and our train under full head-way, amid a multitude of other for the Wild plains and picturesque scenery of the West. Not a short West, but the extreme West of the great Western Continent. Our road lay for the first in circuitous bends following divides with deep ravines on either side occasionally descending into one of them a rising again on to another divide. For the first ten or fifteen miles the face of the country is very uneven and broken and traveling very difficult, especially if the season be wet, then the clayey hills are slippery and the gorges deep and miry. The weather being fine we had no difficulty in going ahead. From one point we had a most splendid view of the surrounding country. Away to the right rolled the rapid Missouri over hills and majestic trees, could we see her waters shining in the sun's rays like burnished silver. To the left lay the vast plain as far as the eye could scan a sea of living green, behind us the hilly scenery we had passed and a distant view of St. Jo and environs around. distance 25 Miles

Saturday May 11th 1850

In passing Wolf creek yesterday the banks of which are very steep. We paid 2/- per wagon for the privilege of crossing on an old log bridge rather than run the risk of fording and straining our team and breaking our wagons in going down & up its abrupt banks. Here we saw some fine looking Indians remnants of Iowa, Sioux [Sauk] and Fox tribes. The boys were very expert with the bow & arrow and would hit a sixpence set in a stick edge ways several rods. It was tall fun for us to see their excitement and anxiety to win the prize some twenty or more letting fly their arrows in quick succession until the lucky arrow hit the mark then the victor ran and secured the bounty amid a shout of laughter from White as well as Indian. A foot race too came off, the contestants for the goal of winning the race being an Indian boy & a white lad in the emigrant train. The white boy beat the Indian much to their chagrin. Five miles from Wolf creek is located the Indian Mission and a beautiful Site it is. Farm well fenced, houses comfortable and neat, a good mill & etc. The land here is very fertile and gently rolling. The weather is fine but the nights are still quite cold. Ice forming on our camp Kettles. In passing a bad Slough today got stuck with big wagon, got out again of course. Some mule trains suffered the same though more flounderingly so lots of ox teams and one by 25 miles hole. Sunday May 12th 1850 for the night on the farther banks of the Big Blue River left our almost woodless encampment this morning at 8 o'clock, resolving to press on until we could find a place fit for laying over, where men, horses and all could be alike benefited. After passing a small streamlet we came on some beautiful prairies of the best prairie soil and traveled on the same until about 3 o'clock PM, without seeing either trees or bushes which would serve us for fuel. Seeing a small grove of trees to the right of the road we followed the same till we came to a small camp of oxen and mules good camping piled. At the rate of three miles to the hour we traveled this day.

Monday May 13th 1850

We were off quite early and traveled along the road to the right along the valley bottom with hills to the left and right which rise to all the verdure behind the prairie & country are indeed most beautiful. Many young and then we pass by dead horses and bodies of them that preceded us, grass being moist they literally littered the road and their poor masters died by grazing, Consequently past the ground of last year's migrants the horns of the goats mark the spot where they perished. The western road leading to the emigrant and wild Indian who roams there to like it, free as the Prairie. Tuesday May 14th 1850 same as previous - In consequence of the great and almost left our lonely encampment at 7. No group could we find nearer than $\frac{1}{2}$ of a mile. The Ox trains had been there before us and ate up every green thing. We are now in the midst of, extensive ox trains and passing them one after another, we pressed on hoping by & by to get in advance of them all and not be annoyed so much by a constant turning out of the road and worrying our teams in getting view at top hills for what and being there to find all several of the hills used s of 10 f men feet tol a start of it to start back o view of the moun one ad to it has won no gated o across long soon

M yseen
I two fial but x0 off out of won no because a yd now

past them. This day watering places abundant, and the most fertile soil man or savage ever trod upon, but timber so scarce that it can never be extensively cultivated. Un-harnessed our horses at noon and turned them loose to graze for the first time. At 1 geared up again passed lots of ox teams and one bad slough hole and finally brought up for the night on the farther banks of the Big Blue River fording good, also (or 19) miles - still passing all forest, making 27 Miles.

Wednesday May 15th. A reverse had happen each case. In viewing the scenery around and as you approach the Big Blue is highly picturesque & romantic. High bluffs deep bottoms extensive views of divide rising on divide until in the distance the clear horizon kissed and mingled with earths soft green. The blue is a clear rapid stream 125 feet wide pebbly bottom. Face of the country quite rolling. Road dry and very dusty. Met two teams on the retrigade track. He was told to () to, turn out to 28 Miles.

Thursday May 16th 1850 for timber to make a new axletree. One was finally found. What a beautiful country. Like the long peaceful swell of an Old Ocean at rest. The soil being a kind of blackish muck, is rich in the extreme as plainly indicative in the luxuriance of the grass and other species of vegetation now by the genial rays of the sun shooting up to maturity. The base of the soil seems to be of a yellowish kind of clayey formation; Well adapted for grain growing, but alas, this vigorous soil must for a long time remain as the free grazing for the deer, elk, buffalo and public hunting park for the adventurous emigrant and Wild Indian who roams where he liketh, free as the Prairie Winds, as untraveled as the game he pursues--In consequence of the great and almost universal scarcity of the timber. Game of all kinds seem quite abundant. Prairie Hens and plover. The wolf and the badger, the Antelope, Elk and deer, living streams of water are only to be met with, at long intervals. Springs and streamlets by the way side do not often greet the longing eyes of the thirsty way worn, and weary traveler. Passed by six graves today, but two of which were of this years emigration, one died of disease and one (Malone) by the accidental discharge of a rifle. Country picturesque winds high-dust annoying and kept in constant agitation by the moving host. 26 Miles

Friday May 17th 1850 We little knew before dark some 9 miles.

Just one week from the bluffs of St. Joseph. Distance in traveling time per hour nett were 3 miles (or 193 miles--This morning all Jovial, musical & well pleased that so far so good. A reverse and damper soon came. In wheeling big wagon round camp ground in starting, the front wheel sunk into an ant hill, ~~very~~ cramping round, breaking the axle square off of the fore wheel. We were now in a fix indeed, with no timber better than burr Oak and green at that to replace the broken axle. Charley Hill was driving the team at the time and it was ~~no~~ sheer carelessness in him. Orville talked to him plainly, to this effect, and Hill retorted back. He was told to ~~what~~ (what?) to, turn out the team while all hands started off for timber to make a new axletree. One was finally found, and that day, all of us and one emigrant from the Chicago Co. besides ~~an~~ who volunteered to aid us in our calamity. The land around was rolling and the burr oak was about the only timber short and scrubby at that. And, two horse shores & rim were finally set the old wheel mounted again (No Miles this day) we had made

10 m Saturday May 18th 1850

Our new axle being finished at 1/2 past 6, we were all ready to start anew on our Journey. We passed over Big & Little Sandy Creek mostly dry now. In going down one of the many quick sand hills, all at once there was the jarring noise of another smash. O. D. C. was gently snoring behind C. S. B. was a driving and I guess doing about the same thing when H.A.C. brot up the rear on foot, there lay a spokeless wheel, the rim tire & hub only left. Sais [says] the passing emigrant, by the way of sympathy, Sirs you are indeed in a bad fix, too bad sure. Sais [says] another Jolly man as he passed us by, Sure and you will have to change wheels & go you will. It was one of those dilemmas that requires action rather than sympathy, and we all admitted that Jokes were a much better antidote than tears. Ames & myself were detailed by the Co. to go off some three miles to a cotton wood skirt. We done so—procured a pole backed it to the spot and chained under the wagon and made the little Blue before dark some 9 miles.

This morning started on our slinking way at 7 o'clock, distance 30 Miles.
Sunday May 19th 1850. Fell in with many teams from Imports Ia. All of A busy time this morning N. A. C. was up at 4 O'clock A. M. and walked some 8 miles down the River in search of a Smith, and some dry seasoned oak or hickory to fill our meal but with out success in either. I became very tired, saw by the way side I. O. O. F. lettered on some wagons. Nearly I made my way up to the camp making myself & casualty known. They were O.K. (some ?) went with me some two miles in search of material aid, but finding none returned & sat down with the stranger brother to a fine breakfast, which, when finished I arose & bade them God Speed on their long & weary way. Returning to camp, found the boys all busy. A dry scared buckberry had been found on the bottom land. When quartered each of us made a spoke. A Smith happened to be camped just above us and aided us. Every hand was busy and every edge tool in demand, two horse shoes & tin were finally set—the old wheel, moved along again & by sun down we had made 10 Miles.

25 Miles

Monday May 20th 1850. We left our "truly" romantic camping ground this morning at 1/2 past 7. The Indians had evidently used the same spot for that purpose many times before us. The rain had fallen in torrents during the night. Consequently everything around in the Morning looked refreshed. Causing the Migrant to Smile & the dumb animals to travel on more cheerfully. The no. of people on the rout May well be termed legion go ahead or fall back. Teams upon Teams are all around you. One solid mass of moving animated nature. Our road today diverged from the River Bottoms and we passed some 7 miles of high dry & undulating Prairie, then came down to the little Blue again. We are now in the land of the Buffalo and other Wild game of the vast Prairies of the great West. Saw to day 1 Buffalo & one Antelope, not near enough however to get a shot--distance ~~28 Miles~~ ^{16 miles}

Tuesday May 21st 1850

This morning started on our winding way at 7 O'clock. Overtook Chicago friends that went ahead on Friday. Fell in with four teams from Laporte Ia. All of whom knew H. A. C. as the old Auctioneer that went it going good & strong for the peoples benefit. H. C. & Newton needed Indians, the latter on the right. Saw both antelopes & buffaloes today on the plain & dividing ridges. These Missourians on fleet horses started off in hot pursuit and such a dust as they left behind was sherry [scary] even to wild beasts. Left the valley of the little Blue and encamped on the high plain off to the left some two miles from the beaten Cala track: the prairie living way of unimpeded nature. 22 Miles

Wednesday May 22nd 1850 along the valley to go-with with running of country. We left our tree clustered camp early and made all haste to cross the high plain or divide between the little blue & the Platte upon which there is no water for man nor beast. Reached the Platte bottom 1/2 past 2 P. M. went 1 1/2 miles to dig out hole for water. Started on again & encamped 1 1/2 miles from Platte. May 23rd 1850

25 Miles

Last Thursday May 23rd 1850 finding a suitable place for grazing our horses and At our camping ground last night found the best grass we have met with on the trip. Traveling our bottom lands lovely in prospect and rich in soil. We arrived at 10 O'clock A. M. at Fort Kearney, situated at the head of twenty mile Island in the Platte River. We made a tarry here of an hour or more writing back to friends we had left, viewing the location &c. We now took up our line of march again, having passed one of the land marks of the Way, pressing on to others that lay en-route for the promised land. Fuel being scarce we stopped to gather willows to cook our evening meal, filling our cask with water &c

Diverging from our path some mile or more, we came to our evening halt and out of Buffalo Meat, Plover & Ducks had one of those soups made that takes a Cal-Emig overland to know how to relish. A man may read but to fully realize he must travel & note for himself.

25 Miles

Friday May 24th 1850 vicinity of which is vast as, of empires and their The Platte valley for extent beauty and association stands (unrivaled ?) It is one vast extended level plain, with undulating bluffs on the left. As you go up the River full of Riffles & cotton wooded islands, the land on the right bank in the distance seems one vast plain of high table land boundless in extent over which roam the Wild Sioux Buffalo, Elk, Antelope and deer, all free as the wind that blows on the swift waters of the turbid Platte.

22 Miles

Saturday May 25th This vast valley is now one moving living map of animated nature. The shrill Bugle, the viol., and harp make the valley to re-echo with strains of sweetest melody. We hear the sharp crack of the rifle, the crack of the ox drivers whip & the bark of the dog tells that the rule of the white man is here, that the Anglo-Saxon race reigns Supreme, the desert giving way. The waste places made to smile for the time being.

25 Miles

Sunday May 26th 1850. Courtney R. was the boy that had taken the traps.
Last night we were late in finding a suitable place for grazing our horses and it was nearly dark when we turned off to the road to the right resolving to look no further, but to run down to the river and camp. All at once the Heavens seemed to be lit up with one sheet of lurid fire. A Windy tempest was upon us. All hands bent too, bracing up the wagons to keep them from capsizing. Subsiding a little we went on down to the River turning our weaned animals out with but little or no grass on which to graze. So this beautiful Sunday Morning we all resolved to travel on a wain until we came to good grass and then turn in for the day, giving our animals a chance to recruit up. Making good too our stock, distance ahead of the long array of ox teams, so annoying to pass after having once got a head, at 11 A. M. found a spot here. We shortened our wagon Box shot our horses & ~~the~~ ~~spoke~~ ~~in~~ from the outfit of drivers for distance 13 Miles

Monday May 27th 1850 ~~in~~ days are now cool and overcast with drizzling rain. Left camp in the immediate vicinity of which a vast no. of emigrants and their teams were spread abroad. Went on eight miles and came to the south fork of the Platte, turned out to graze and at 11 O'c had a lunch prepared. After which a Co. of us scaled Pawnee Peak a high eminence of the continuous bluffs skirting the Platte. The view is quite extended hill retiring behind hill far away to the south interspersed with vallies & deep gorges. Where the Indian Buffalo, Antelope and deer can roam un molested away from the fear and haunts of man.

many thrilling incidents could be related verifying the fact. Total 10 Miles on Tuesday May 28th. Our provision wagon being absent on the return went over

Heavy frost this morning last night another (except 2nd) occurred as we were in pursuit of suitable camping ground for the night. G. C. was ahead in search of grass, C. S. B. Hill, Ames & Agard were next with the h & 2 horses team, N. A. G. was ahead after orville. The rear all turned to the right on their own hook & left O. D. C. to find them as best he could. When all parties finally met, high and angry words ensued. Charley B. was the boy that had taken the responsibility of turning right wheel when one in the Co. had been on for some time seeking the most suitable spot. He was told in plain terms he had done wrong ~~and~~ and O. D. C. would not stand it again, would leave the Co. if there could not be unity of action. There was then a calm. Went along then up the River or fork, the plain more barren still, at last came across Col. Platner's Camp from Marshall Michigan, in the vicinity of which good grass was found and at 1/2 past 5 turned out for the night 25 Miles

Wednesday May 29th

Our weak horses are now on the gain. Hunt has been out of the harness a week, Gims neck is also mending. Ames grumbles because he hasto put his horses on heavy wagon, which had to be done to favor old Gim. He must be cautious how he give vent to his spleen or fans the spirit of discord for we work and act for the good of the whole. The days are now cool and our teams are getting along first rate. (Bois Devache ?) is our only fuel now. The bluffs on the south fork of the Platts are scarcely perceptible. Buffalo trails from the plains running down to the River are very frequent and deep trod from the tramp of ages. Crossing over from bluffsides to the River we camped at 1/2 past 6. 23 Miles.

Our Thursday May 30th 25 Miles. This was an exciting trip by land as we never went up the River bottom 5 miles and crossed over in safety witnessed many Indians as well as daring feats. It was a scene not soon to be forgotten & many thrilling incidents could be related verifying the fact truth is many times stronger than fiction. Our provision wagon being raised on the axles went over safe. Our clothing got wet somewhat & had to be spread out and dried. When we had only passed over Jourdon & got safely over her quick sands, in doing which our horses were turned loose to graze & we laid over until noon. Then we hurried up again and passed over a high rolling and almost barren up land about 17 miles without in fact, wood, water, or grass to speak of descending down a very abrupt and difficult hill, passing down through a lengthened ravine called by travellers Ash Hollow. All of which feats we accomplished in safety in the same day. The late heavy rain had so laid the deep sand in this Ash Hollow gorge that we had no difficulty in passing out on to the Main Platts, one mile up on which we came to a halt, very much pleased with our days adventure and travel. There now opened to our view new scenery in the shape of big castelated rocks steep and leafy bluffs. A more extensive valley and more densely crowded emigration. During Sunday we laid by for the weight of men & distance 25 Miles.

May 31st 1850 ~~midday~~. Apparently just over a rising swell of hill land. This day we passed occationally flats of grass, good grass, which is no small item on an excursion, where for so great a term our beasts have nothing else to depend upon. Seven miles from the mouth of Ash Hollow we came to a series of abrupt bluffs of all shapes and forms, convex, concave, square, elliptical, pyramidal, hexagon, octagon, parallel, Parallelogram, Bald headed with sentry and country post, plainly depicted on the top in fact appearing like a skeleton skull of some ancient aborigine chief seated thus on his high eminence to guard the ground--where repose his race from time immemorial. These bluffs range from 50 to 150 feet in height and are laid down on our charts as Castle Bluffs. Our distance this day 25 Miles. Thus are we nearing fresh by inch as it were, that distant Western land that in the bright anticipation so charms us on in our lonely way.

25 Miles

June 1st 1850

Such a rain as ushered in the first day of June was really a welcome to the dry and parched up valley. Yea thrice, welcome to the weary pilgrim Emigrant. Our small caravan made fine progress, grass green verdant and spicy, waved in lawns on either side of our track, a broad expanse with not a tree pillow or bush to be seen. The road on the north side of the Platte could be seen in the distances winding its serpentine course through flat and round bluffs and compared with the one on the south side but few emigrants on the move may off to the left leaped up to appearance a most stately Nausicaa—an old feudal castle with bastions parapets etc, entirely detached from any range of hills, bluffs or mountains. Sure nature cuts up many a freak that geologist or naturalist can hardly explain. This pointed rock is named the church or court house, distance by time 30 Miles

June 2d 1850

This day being Sunday we laid by for the respite of man & beast our camping ground is truly romantic. Apparently just over a rising swell of undulating Prairie Stands out in bold relief of one of natures stately edifices. The "Coart House" or "Church". From base to high dome it is indeed beautiful to be hold. Distance lends charm to the view. Though over ten miles off. Apparently it is not over three, so thought some of our Co. & others who started after breakfast as they thought for an hours stroll to view this, one of the Wonders of the valley of the Platte. Tired and Weary sometime after dark they returned fully satisfied that appearances are indeed very deceptive. This handy work of nature is said to be over half of a mile in circumference, and between 350 & 400 feet in height. An out tower near by of the same height and a limpid brook running at its base adds additional beauty to the scene.

No Miles

June 3d
Arose early to get the start of the numerous trains of ox teams all along the

This morning we were all up & off by times. Within the last three days we have passed five Indian Villages or groups of wigwams--constructed mostly of skins attaching to small poles coming together at the top some fifteen feet high with an aperture high up the side for the smoke to issue forth. Some of these tents are quite large & capable of holding fifty savages. They are so nicely constructed as to be proof against storm, wind & weather and quite comfortable to all appearance. These savages are of robust stature of fine physiognomy very importuning, begging bread, flower, sugar etc. Saying no good Indian, we no steal horses etc. About noon we were opposite the chimney rock. In appearance it is like a huge Denison the middle, rising 250 feet perpendicular, giving ample vent to all the imaginary flames of the village of hills round about. Such rains & hail showers, is a caution.

distance 25 Miles

Our camp last night was pitched in the immediate vicinity of a village of Just two months today since we left Joliet. We begin to think Jourdan on a long and hard road to travel but we murmur not. We have enlisted heart & hand for the whole compain. Our nerves & muscles fully braced for any thing that may rise up or seem to oppose our onward march. The roads are getting quite heavy from the constant daily thunder showers prevelent and such sudden gusts of wind & lurid flamed forked tongued lightning accompanied by thunder so loud that it would seem that all of heavens mighty artillery had broke loose, showering down not leaden but hail stone bullets some as big as ones fist. We were now in full view of Scotts Bluffs and rightly named. Grand towers castles rampart walls, bastions all sentries at their posts the army in reserve, the scrub pine on the tops like so many bristling bayonets. 8 miles brot us through the valley to the left of the Bluffs and on a rising ground, camped full view of Laramies Peak Rocky Mountains.

made 20 miles

June 5th 1853 [1850] The travel has been highly picturesque indeed. Laramie Arrose early to get the start of the numerous trains of ox teams all along the way. A great nuisance to horse & mule trains which travel faster & are obliged to turn out and get past their long string of ho-hoos-gees along as best they may. The road less sandy & approximating to the gravel Laramie Peak looms up in the distance. A high & dark wall or tower on the Western horizon, one hundred and fifty miles distant. Passed at the foot of Scotts Bluff an Indian Village and a French Trading Post, Blacksmith shop etc. Passed horse creek and came in sight once more of some friendly Willows, cotton wood trees and the sweet briar. As we begin to near the Black Hills laying to the West of Fort Laramie, the soil begins to change hard bed, lay along our path, and the face of nature to clothe herself in granite form. Our spirits ward is our motto.

distance 30 miles

June 6th 1850 Left camping ground. Where we found grass in abundance and a pore Our camp last night was pitched in the immediate vicinity of a village of prairie dogs. The mouth or opening of their burrows is in shape like the big end of brass trumpet. In eye they resemble very much one of our wood chucks sitting on the edge of their holes they will keep up a constant hacking or barking noise, liken to a whippet dog ready to drop into their den the moment you approach or shoot at them. We are rising in altitude also making a more northern latitude as we near Fort Laramie. Timber lands more frequent and of larger growth. Fording Laramie Fork, just above where it empties into the Platte and turning round to the left came in full view of the fort, most beautifully located on the fork in an extended plain surrounded by high hills and walled bluffs. Whose edges are lined with snow. Stopped only long enough to mail some packages of letters & then pushed on over the hill and camped.

after 3 P.M.

20 Miles

June 7th 1850

The scenery of this days travel has been highly pictoresque indeed. Laramie's lofty peak constantly greets the eye in its Gigantic outlines. Elevating this Snow Capped head high up into the sky screens a giant surrounded by the black hills, all doing obeisance and rendering homage to his most exalted highness. Hills and verdant vallies Riverlets of purest water in whose crystal founts the mountain trout doth no delight to sport. The Antelope, Elk and deer bounding over the vallies and ascending the mountain slope in the distance. The pure air of the Rocky Mountains is most gratefully welcomed, after our long journey up the valley of the high bluffed plattie. Our course is now over the black hills. Having left the banks of the Platte away to the right, steering Westerly course until we again strike it near the upper & last Ferry. Company all in fine spirits. Distance--

25 Miles

June 8th 1850

Left our splendid camping ground. Where we found grass in abundance and a pure spring brook issuing from a basin reservoir in a meadow valley, just above our encampment and 26 miles from Fort Laramie. This A.M. fell in with a Chicago train Butler Capt. passed the usual compliment of recognition. were passed on we sped our way to the still far off land of promise. This days travel proved an up and down hill operation, some of them quite precipitous and McAdamized with small cobble stones very hard of ascent especially in a rainy time. The dry runs are numerous, their dusty courses almost barren of timber, in time of freshet the torrents from the hills and mountains around rushes in these channels with amazing velocity, disgorging themselves into the Platte, leaving a coarse sandy sediment in their beds, glittering in the Sun like so many diamonds. The horn toad first met our gaze traveling through these Hills--their tails are lizard like and they are small in bulk. This day camped late, finding no grass. Camped after 8 P. M. ~~no provision of the guides.~~ distance 37 Miles

June 9th 1850

distance 21 miles

In trying to find a good camping ground last night we traveled on and on until after dark when about 8 O^{clock} we reached what is called Labenli [Le Bonne] River hungry and faint and horses completely faged out. No grass appearing we turned our horses adrift to shift for themselves as best they could and without getting any supper we hastily pitched our tent and all hands turned in leaving our horses to go unmatched where they listed. On awaking this morning nothing but barrenness was visible around. Wild sage indeed a plenty, which only added desolation to the views. Our horses were found on a distant hill side, where they were picking a few scattered spears of tuft grass. Feeling ourselves much refreshed we were now only anxious to provide for our dumb beasts, so we harnessed up and after going some five miles it being Sunday we turned in on a branch of the River we had passed last night and let our horses graze upon tolerable grass, feeding and resting, to man & beast very acceptable. distance 5 miles

June 10th 1850

Mud creek 1/2 mile farther with steep banks. This was indeed a lovely morning. The Robin lark and other songsters of the wild West caroled their softest sweetest melody. The air was pure and elastic, all nature seemed to smile in gayest attire. The grass looking more green from the last nights refreshing shower. Lapareel [?] River we passed at 11 A. M. and turned out our horses for a noon graze hiring an emigrant Smith to set five shoes at 1/ each, am thinking ourselves quite fortunate withall. In looking had not been long before our Captain heard the alarm, that our own horses were at the passing trains while thus detained we notice Capt. Wm Jones train of wagons from Naperville Dupage Co. Ills. -- Soon after hitching up I went on ahead to overtake the Cap. In the meantime a thunder shower burst with unusual severity over the hills drenching man and beast. Causing the ravines and hills to rise and with impetuous sweep bear down everything that obstructed. I over took Jones and Co. soon after which then was general camping for the day in consequence of the overflow of the gulches. Cagwins, Jones and Butlers trains all together.

Soon horses we passed these short distances and arrived our horses

distance 21 miles

June 11th 1850
ing then about 3 miles to the Platte to water. 3 hours mounting only 11 miles It was an incident worthy of mention the meeting of so many friends amidst the barren hills in a savage land far away from the haunts of civilisation. There was a general mingling of happy sentiment, words of condolence and encouragement given all taking courage and bidding each other God Speed as we started on our way, at early dawn. Crossed over the Fourche Bois, that so impeded our progress the night before, now reduced to easy fords dimensions. Passed on some four miles and came once more upon our old stand-by for many a long and weary day, the River Platte, so completely metamorphosed too was he, that we should hardly have recognised our old friend. The current was rapid waters clear and deep and confined to narrower banks. Five miles farther onward we passed Deer Creek quite a stream, abounding in fish, well timbered, but grass scarce. Now hills and creeks at a point where the land begins to rise and the plains end the bluff rises and pitches. A chain of Mountain Bluffs on our left whose tops were skirted with snow eternal. Mud creek 9-1/2 miles farther with steep banks was passed. Went on ahead with Jones train and waited for ours to come up.

distance 2½ Miles

June 12th 1850

About 10 O'clock last night we were aroused from early slumber by a regular Stampede of horses or mules from below. We all sprang up supposing they were our own. Learning the facts of the case we felt relieved and retired again to rest. We had not lain long before our Sentries sounded the alarm, that our own horses were on the move and unless secured soon, would be off to parts unknown. We now arose in earnest went out and secured all of our horses. At 2 O'clock in the morning all hands were up breakfast prepared, teams harness and at 4 we were going ahead with a rush to make up the upper ferry of the Plate to secure as early and sure a ferry crossing. The men who had been left to guard the horses had secured all of them over as possible. When we arrived at 1/2 past 8 A. M. and by 1/2 past 10 we were on the shore and returning to our teams to start. In the morning nearly the were all over the other side. The rush was very great though five ferry boats were there for every hour, two by two with four to every point of the compass. in motion. One a mormon, over which we crossed paying $4 for each wagon $2 for the horses crossing and required four different crossings and the heart became faint each horse we moved then short distance and turned our horses out to graze. Tak- and the spirits of all began to fail. When we came away off through a mountaining them after 3 miles to the Plate to water. 5 hours nooning only 14 Miles George Ladd driving before him the whole train of animals. Total March 31 Miles from every point. That day we this reached the sweet water and camped 1/2 miles west of Devil's gate. mountains rocks deep ravines etc. all bear indications of volcanic heat and action.

June 13th 1850

June 14th 1850

The pond and springs are strongly tintured with alchali and several cattle lay dead around from having drank the same. The soil is sandy or coarse gravel. Our road lay along and through deep valleys with high rocky and precipitous bluffs on From Green creek to the Colorado plains I will go on heavy and sandy with either side. Fourteen miles from the Mineral Lake we came to the celebrated Willow flat view of the granite mountains at whose base ran the rapid sweet water river Springs, the water of which was clear as crystal and cold as zero. Grass was very poor around these springs from being a general camping ground. After our noon into the Plate. Going on some four miles we were attracted with cooling thoughts of the sweet water. However at this full view of Independence Rock a road to creek at a point where the road touches its verdureless banks. There was no al- cune. This Waterfall falls in one place being 1/4 of a mile wide from 100 to 150 feet high, and within here nine of Geese, 100000 of Geese are common there, sentinels were posted with strict orders to keep an eye on the animals, but during our night most of them stampeded.

they were encamped under its shade and we saw them no more until we got in Cole.

distance 31 Miles

Devil's Gate is a frightful gap, through a spur of the mountains through which

June 14th 1850

This morning was one of the eventful ones with the Co. As early as 9 o'clock P. M. C. Blackman and myself went out to secure the horses. We found on examination Creek.

distance 31 Miles

that two of the No. were missing. While in search of them the balance were left under the charge of Blodget of the Chicago train. We gave up the pursuit and on returning to where the others were left we found Blodget Horses and all gone. One had gone to camp for something, the horses stampeded after the two first missing. The search was kept up until after midnight by all hands. When we gave up the chase and returned to our tents to rest. In the morning early the whole Co. were on the alert, two by two with face to every point of the compass. The whole country was searched over without success and the heart became faint and the spirits of all began to flag. When was seen away off through a mountain George Agard driving before him the whole train of animals. Hara! Hara! rang from every mouth. That day or this reached the sweet water and camped 1/2 mile West of Devils gate. ~~With an altitude of 5000 feet above sea level~~ 20 Miles

June 15th 1850

Yesterday when everything was put to rights, the United Chicago and Jelst trains moved on with hearts more buoyant than ~~as though~~ no accident had happened. From Grease creek to the Salutes plains 8 miles going heavy and sandy with a fine view of the granite Mountains at whose base ran the rapid sweet water rising at the very base of the Rocky Mountains running an Easterly course and emptying into the Platte. Going on some four miles we were refreshed with cooling draughts of the sweet water. Stepping within full view of Independence Rock at noon to gaze. This Majestic Pile is one mile long $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile wide from 100 to 150 feet high, one solid bare mass of Granite, 100,000 of names are engraved thereon. passing emigrants. At noon Jones Train passed us and when we passed Int. Rock they were encamped under its shade and we saw them no more until we met in Cala. Devils Gate is a frightful gap, through a spur of the Mountain through which the St. Water has cut its narrow way. 1 mile long 400 feet high. Well termed the Devils gate. From this camp to next resting ground on bitter cotton wood Creek. ~~With an altitude of 5000 feet above sea level~~ 22 Miles

June 16th 1850

Yesterday Morning as we left our camp in close proximity to the Devil's Gate, the cool winds of the Mountains reminded us of Winter, overcoats were in demand and Mittens and gloves sought after. Raw Winds from the West all day. Sand flying from desert wastes vast fields or plains of Wild Sage Blocked the way, save one narrow path through which the vast emigrant train had made its way. Granite Boulders rising into hills and these into Mountains. These high towering peaks kissed the skies. Take it all in all, the scenery on the Sweet-Water will vie in the sublime with any in the world. This day Sunday spent in camp duties, watching over resting horses as they quietly grazed and in viewing some of the volcanic Rocks and Scenery in the immediate vicinity. Others of the Co. went off on an Antelope hunt on a distant mountain and did not return until midnight. Each with a ham of an Antelope on his back as they thought pretty dearly purchased. Timber is scarce but here and there. A bitter cotton wood skirting the creek which gives it its name.

June 17th 1850, many glorious morning we had. In a bucket of water with the two hunters report that they followed up Bitter Cottonwood Creek to its very source in the mountain, that they scaled its topmost peak scaling up a monster bear on their way, and as it happened both parties were willing to go on their way without scaling up a flight. That while in one of their elevated positions they saw an Antelope in a gulch below fired and brought him down. They described the scenery as being very grand and on the North side of the Mountains snow to the depth of ten feet or more, also that dense thickets of pine and tamarack abounded. The road to day is very heavy, in fact so sandy as to warrant us in pronouncing it the worst going on the rout. We are gradually rising to the south pass of the Rocky Mountains. The air is cold, winds piercing and Winter reigns in the midst of summer. Grass for our beast very poor and scarce, while wild sage is every where.

distance 25

June 18th 1850

Camped last night in the midst of a sixteen mile stretch, no water to be found and the next thing to no grass at all. We left the sage and sand barrens early without a passing regret, and pushed on to strike the sweet water again. Our horses were quite as anxious as ourselves to participate in its cooling draughts. We were taking it pure while theirs was mixed with flour, answering for both food and drink. We forded the River and five miles farther on. Again going only one quarter of a mile before recrossing to the North side again to avoid a sand bluff so tiring to man and beast. We now have a full view of the Wind River chain of mountains to the right of the pass. Their tops tower to the skies and are covered with snow eternal, sublime spectacle that can amaze. In the heart of summer while winter reigns supreme. We now commenced ascending a series of hills and on the top of the last rocky ledge encamped near an ice lake with good grass around. dist. 22 Miles

June 19th 1850

This is as beautiful a day as winters morning need be. In a bucket of water outside the tent ice made 1/4 of an inch in thickness. The wind comes direct off of the Wind River snow capped mountain peaks, some twenty five miles to the Northwest. Blankets and Quilts were among the indispensables. We now begin to witness by the way side and at every camping ground the abandonment of every kind and species of property. Wagons Rifles, axes, chains, neck yokes, kegs, traps, Powder, lead and Harnesses strew the road. The motto seems to be to throw away lighten up and go ahead and the D₁ take the hindmost. Thus perisheth thousands of dollars worth of property that had better never left home, it did so clog the onward march to the golden land. Wagons are being coupled up so short that the hind and fore wheels nearly touch, that they may run easier. Sold our light Ames Wagon to day to an ox train for 10$. They left a heavy one worth five of ours by the road side. Water and going good, grass but moderate.

We are gently ascending to the South peak.

distance 20 Miles

June 20th 1850

This morning how unlike that of yesterdays. The air is now as mild and bland as a young Maidens Smile, on the reception of a bouquet of flowers from the one she loves best. Over coats are now thrown aside and the musketoes do keep up such a buzzing about our ears, as to much annoyed, saying nothing about their piercing salutations. To the apex of the south pass 5-1/2 miles from last camping ground. The pass is about 20 Miles in width as level and gently undulating as an Illinois prairie. Were it not for the high snow Jagged peaks to the right and high range of hills away to the left. We should scarce be aware that we were crossing the back bone of the North American Continent. Tis passed and we are now slaking our thirst from a small trickling rivulet issuing from the Pacific Spring. A Mountain tributary to the Mighty Colorado of the Pacific.

How changed is everything around, air, water, grass and prospect. We are descending the Western slope of the Rocky Mountains.

distance 20 Miles

a short time ago Big Sandy

25 Miles

June 21st 1850

Had good grass for our horses last night and they were not slow to improve the opportunity. Left camp ground at 6 am and arrived at the Junction of California and Oregon roads. Our train taking coaches cut off road, leaving the Mormon route via Fort Bridger to the left. We grazed our horses at noon a short distance only from the little Sandy River. Carried water to the base of a high hill on the left side four miles out from little Sandy. Myself and Amos of our train and Blodget of the Chicago were attacked with the Mountain fever. All taken just before dinner. Burning up with intense heat the mind wandering away into the dreamy land. Oh how cool and refreshing the snow locked upon the Mountains Peaks, that we had passed away to the right of the road and yet it was beyond our reach, so we plodded on through--the sand and sultry heat, panting all the while for the cooling water brook. We arrived on the big Sandy River and camped on the West side. I took to bed taking some of Dr. Hills